Thinking Out Loud

H. M. L.

In the good old days, when gold bricks sold at their face value, when horse traders sold crippled nags by laming all four legs, and Connecticut wooden nutmegs undersold the real nutmegs from the Spice Islands, there was a tribe of sleek gentry that lived handsomely by selling to swindlers "sucker lists." "Sucker list" values depended on the average amount for which each name upon it could be mulcted. In these days, it is the labor racketeers who enroll suckers to support them in luxurious ease, on the theory that if they are thus supported, they will help the suckers attain the "abundant life."

The CIO "sucker list" includes all those who are incited to resist officers, violate the various laws which WERE NOT REPEALED BY THE WAGNER ACT, and when these misled individuals finally land in jail, they and their families are left to shift for themselves. The leaders, well groomed, well paid, well fed in the best hotels in whatever community they happen to be while inciting to riot our young men and boys and occasional adults, stand way back from the fighting lines, as they did on the Red Dog road, and when the fight is lost come forward and grandly make a truce with the Sheriff.

Of all those who lost their jobs through the rash and hasty action of a handful of malcontents, miners who were forced out of their jobs and lost several days pay through mob action of the CIO affiliate, only one family, as nearly as can be ascertained, has received any help from the CIO; that is the Vasion family of seven children and their mother. The hundred men and their families of the Murchie Mine who lost their jobs and have not yet recovered them, can shift for themselves, they and their wives and children.

In the meantime John L. Lewis purchases a building in Washington, D. C. and refurbishes it for office purposes at a total cost of $350,000. He lives in a house in a village not far from Washington, a house beautifully furnished, with many rare antiques, which, all told, cost approximately $30,000.

It is for this exalted labor dictator and potentate, that duped and befuddled men and boys, not only in Nevada City but in other peaceful and pleasant industrial communities in the United States, toil and sweat, or give up good jobs to do picket duty and finally submit their foolish heads to the drubbing of police clubs. Formerly those who compiled and sold "sucker lists" and other leaches who lived on the "suckers" eventually went to jail, now it is the "suckers" who go to jail.

In these circumstances, it would seem to be the duty of all citizens who believe in the peaceful and reasonable settlement of labor disputes to give the Mine Workers Protective League every support possible. The 1200 members (not 1100 as erroneously reported in these columns) have soberly gone their way, their committees quietly meeting with employers to discuss the problems that arise between them, year after year accumulating a treasury which pays to its members, sick and accident benefits, gives assistance to widows and orphans, and in other ways helps its members. The Labor Board gives this old and independent union, who are the neighbors and friends of all of us in the twin city community, legal status under the Wagner Act. No money collected by the league in dues or initiation fees goes to support distant labor bosses in luxury. It is spent helpfully to all of us in Nevada County. On the substantial basis of its merits and accomplishments, the Mine Workers Protective League deserves the allegiance of every loyal citizen in the county.

However, the CIO affiliate is not without its benevolent resources. Of the 20 or 25 men who quit their jobs to strike, some of them at least, have been told by the well-paid CIO leaders, that the CIO is very poor and cannot support them indefinitely but that they may go to the county court house and there demand relief or failing there, from the WPA representative of the Federal government in Grass Valley.

The Federal Government gets its funds from all the tax payers, including those of Nevada County. In other words those whom the CIO ruins, deprives of jobs and cannot spare money enough from the millions handed over to John L. Lewis, to feed, are shouldered off on the taxpayers. This is, indeed, the New Deal.

"LET'S GO" TO PRESIDENT'S BALL SAYS HAWKINS

There is much enthusiasm among the Nevada City people over the President's Birthday Ball to be held tomorrow night in Memorial Hall, Grass Valley.

Dr. Walter Hawkins, chairman for the Nevada City committee in charge of arrangements announces that all plans are complete so that this fifth annual President's Ball will be bigger and better than ever.

The proceeds as is well known, will go to the national fund, for combating infantale paralysis. Those buying tickets will know not only the pleasure of the dance and program, but also the consciousness of having done their bit toward fighting this dread disease.

Chairman Hawkins urges all who can to not only buy a ticket but to attend so as to give Nevada City a fine repnesentation. Besides dancing a fine program will be given.

U. S. WEBB WILL NOT RUN AGAIN FOR ATTY. GEN.

"I'll go back and tell the home folks first," was the conclusion of U. S. Webb, attorney general for the state of California who was born and raised in Plumas county, when in his own mind he decided to announce that he, after serving the state for 36 years, would not again be candidate for re-election.

So at the 28th annual dinner of the Grass Valley Chamber of Commerce held at the Bret Harte Inn on Wednesday Attorney General Webb guest speaker of the evening made the announcement of his intention to retire at the end of his present term. The speaker expressed his appreciation to the people of Northern California and Nevada county especially for their support every four years when he sought re-election.

Eben Smart was chairman of the meeting, George L. Jones, an old friend of Attorney Webb presented him to the assembly.

Telegrams were read from Governor Frank Merriam, W. H. Griffith of the Nevada City Chamber of Commerce, Senator J. L. Seawell, and Chief of Police James Davis of Los Angeles, all of whom had been invited but were forced to send regrets.

Fred Conner president of the Nevada City Chamber of Commerce, extended the good wishes of this community to the Grass Valley Chamber on this auspicious occasion and Arthur Dudley, secretary-manager of the Sacramento Chamber extended greetings from that organization. Edwin R. Pickett, president of the Sacramento Chamber also brought greetings from that city.

George Hallock, president of the California Hydraulic Mining Association, gave a brief history of the activities of that organization since its inception two years ago. He said that in the program of rehabilitation that had been formulated, three of the four debris dam projects were now in construction.

Loyal Freeman outgoing president of the Grass Valley Chamber of Commerce presented Al Newell incoming president and D. C. Baum, incoming vice president.

EARL P. SUTTON IS MARRIED SUNDAY

The many friends of Earl P. Sutton in Grass Valley and Nevada City were surprised and pleased to hear of his marriage on Sunday to Mrs. Etta Cero of Walnut Creek. The ceremony took place in the Methodist church of Walnut Creek with the Rev. Warrant officiating. Both the bride and groom are well known in Nevada City and Grass Valley and extend their best wishes to the newlyweds.

Mr. Sutton recently sold the Glenbrook Dairy, which he had operated for many years. They will make their home at Glenbrook.

STATE BOARD WILL HEAR JANISS CASE

The State Board of Equalization will conduct a hearing in Nevada City within a week to consider an application to re-issue the liquor license of Ted Janiss, operator of My Place on Broad street. Janiss' license was revoked several days ago as the result of the death of Mrs. William Chaney, who died of intoxication and exposure shortly after being taken from a rear room in My Place. Russell B. Farley, inspector for the state board, stated Mrs. Chaney lay in the rear room twenty four hours unaided.

TRAFFIC QUIZ GIVEN ROTARY

Eben Smart, secretary of the Traffic Patrol, Grass Valley office, gave all members of the Rotary club yestenday at luncheon, a driving license test. The new tests are very thorough, offering the applicant for a driver's license diagrams and a choice of answers, only one of which is correct. Few of the members failed to pass the test 100 per cent. Several of the new amendments to traffic laws were discussed by Mr. Smart, and the Rotarians were keenly interested, asking many questions.

There was some discussion of the proposal to establish in Nevada City a chapter of the E Clampus Vitus. The question was debated of sending a delegate down to a meeting of the Yerba Buena chapter of E Clampus Vitus to participate Saturday in the ceremony of placing a plaque on the Merchant Exchange building in San Francisco, which now stands on what once was the shore line of San Francisco bay. The Hall of Comparative Ovations will be opened in the Grabhorn Press at 642 Commercial street in the afternoon and in the evening, there will be an initiation of "poor blind brothers seeking the light." and a feast at the Hotel Espana.

The club received a report from Frank Finnegan, vice president, that a little girl to whom the club had given assistance, had died following an operation in San Francisco.

At a meeting of the directors following luncheon, Howard Ross, contractor, who for several months has been engaged in construction work in Portola, Plumas county, reported that a Rotary club was forming there and that he would probably transfer his membership to the new club which expects to be chartered early in March.

It was announced that District Governor Allison Ware will be in Nevada City and Grass Valley on February 6 and 7. Arrangements are being made for a joint meeting with the Grass Valley club Monday noon, February 7, in the Bret Harte Inn.

NEVADA CITY ICE DELIVERY, NEW FIRM

Ray Ball and Elton Kendrick, two well known and highly esteemed young business men of this district, have taken over the Union Ice Delivery plant at the Plaza from its owner, Fred Sauvee, who is retiring in the interests of his health.

The new firm will have the name "Nevada City Ice Delivery" as a royalty is charged for use of the name "Union Ice Delivery Company." The company with branches in many California cities originated in Nevada City. Mr. Sauvee's father, the late Victor Sauvee purchased the present plant about 56 years ago from the partners originating the company, and they moved to San Francisco where they established a plant and opened plants in many other California cities.

The new wholesale and retail firm in this city will continue to operate along the same lines as under the management of Mr. Sauvee. They will sell ice, coal, Acme beer, Italian Swiss Colony wines, all coco cola products. Coco Cola products include creme, lemon, strawberry, raspberry, and orange drinks.

Delivery will be made not only in Nevada City but the same efficient service will be continued to towns throughout the mountain areas.

Mrs. Mary Salmon, who fell seven weeks ago and broke her knee cap, was brought to this city during the week end by her daughter, Mrs. Lee Day, and will remain for a time. She is able to get about on crutches.

SUPERVISORS ADOPT PICKET ORDINANCE

The Board of Supervisors Wednesday adopted a picketing ordinance, which, as an emergency measure went into effect immediately with its first publication yestenday morning. The ordinance is somewhat similar to that recently adopted in Yuba City, and in some of its aspects resembles the Los Angeles picketing ordinance. It does not prohibit picketing but does penalize attempts to blockade streets, roads, and entrances to public or private property, and the use of force to deter workers from entering upon, or seeking employment. It also prohibits the use of abusive language, epithets, and inflamatory speeches tending to incite riot or violence. In brief the new ordinance limits all picketing to the strictly peaceful variety.

She will be called as the vacancy occurs. The many friends of Miss Wilde are pleased to learn of her passing the tests and wish her continued success.

FLAGG PAINTING SHOWN

The original painting of the famous Montgomery Flagg poster, showing Uncle Sam in the dress of a forester fighting fire, was shown to approximately 125,000 people in Los Angeles and San Francisco, according to a report received by DeWitt Nelson, forest supervisor at Nevada City.

Six Held to Answer For Riot on Highway

Judge W. L. Mobley, acting after a preliminary hearing in the justice court Wednesday, ordered the six defendants who were arrested on January 20 and charged with rioting, to be held over for trial in the Superior Court. They will be arraigned befone Judge Tuttle in the Superior Court on Monday, January 31. Judge Mobley, in his decision, refused the request of defense lawyer, George R. Anderson, that the bail for the defendants be reduced. It is understood that Anderson will file, at the arraignment next Monday, a petition for a writ of habeas corpus for C. E. Circle, one of the defendants. Two of the defendants, James Vasion, father of seven, and Grant Spear, who is at present recovering from scalp wounds in the Landis Clinic, are at liberty on bail.

At the preliminary hearing held last Wednesday, District Attorney Stoll and defense lawyer George R. Anderson examined Sheriff Tobiassen, Undersheriffs Bill Woods, Carl Larsen, and Special Deputy Ronald Fraser. Anderson subjected the sheriff and his men who were called for witnesses to an extremely thorough examination. He objected to every attempt of a witness to give any information which might possibly be construed as the witness's own conclusion. Sheriff Tobiassen was kept on the stand all morning and part of the afternoon.

The sheriff and his deputies testified that the following acts had been committed by the defendants: James Vasion—threw large rocks through windshield of Caribeno Orzalli's car; C. E. Circle—exhorted gathering not to clear road, not to let the cars pass stated he would die before he moved from his position directly in front of the leading car, helped seize the front of Orzalli's car and lift it up in the air; attempted to reach under the hood of the car to wrench out the distributor; Henry Yuen—threw rocks at deputies, threw water on and under radiator of the Orzalli car; Spears—engaged in a fight with deputy Frank Misner pulled down the radiator covering of the Orzalli car; other evidence was given as to the activities of defendants Staton and Zdrich.

Approximately fifty people were present at the hearing in the small justice court.

40 CCC BOYS AT WORK IN DOWNIEVILLE

Visitors conferring with Superintendent DeWitt Nelson at the Tahoe National Forest service headquarters in Nevada City yesterday were, Paul C. Brown, procurement officer; Murt Hiatt, supervising mechanic for the California Region, and William Hawkins, transportation officer from the Government Island at Oakland. They held the conference on equipment for the Tahoe National Forest for the coming season.

The CCC enrollment will remain open a short time yet and will open again in April for new enrollees. About 40 CCC boys are working on flood damage at Downieville. While the boys at the Grass Valley camp were being sent to other camps the work was held up to some extent but is under way again. Watermains about the city are receiving special attention. Friends and past residents donated $120 recently and this was used to bring water to seventeen families on Jersey Flat.

BROTHER SUCCUMBS

CAMPTONVILLE, Jan. 27.—Walter Emmett Pafne, passed away at Oakland Friday after an illness of several months. He was a brother of Mrs. Lee Bullington of the Cold Spring service station and she hurried to him but he passed away before she got there.

Deceased was a retired railroad man of Alameda having resided there for the past quarter century. He is survived by his sister, Mrs. Bullington, his aged mother, Mrs. Robert Walker of Wheatland and a brother William E. Payne of Oakland. Interment was made at Haywards.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Erikson came up from Folsom yesterday on a short business trip. Mr. Erikson is guard at Folsom prison.

RADIO TO SERVE FOREST SERVICE FIRE CONTROL

The Tahoe National Forest will be well equipped for radio service in connection with possible fires during the coming season, according to DeWitt Nelson, forest supervisor at Nevada City. With the installation of a powerful "M" set in the Nevada City office and several "SPF" sets for stationing at fires, Nelson expects fire activities to be expedited. In addition, there will be small "S" sets for inter-communication on fire lines.

This radio equipment rendered valuable service during the recent Downieville flood by the installation of an "SPF" set at Downieville. Reception at the Nevada City office was not entirely satisfactory, according to Nelson, on account of a number of high tension wires in the immediate vicinity and small electric motors at soda fountains and other places of business. To eliminate the interference from high tension wires, Staff Engineer William P. Lee is experimenting with a specially designed aerial on top of the Elks building. Preliminary tests show perfect transmission and reception with stations as far south as San Diego. To further insure the efficiency of this equipment when emergencies arise, Nelson plans to seek the cooperation of business houses in the vicinity of his office in insulating any motors they have in operation. This, according to Engineer Lee, can be done a small expense and without reducing the efficiency of the motors.

The use of the radio equipment will be under the direction of Assistant Supervisor Ernest L. Baxter, in charge of fire control activities for the Tahoe Forest. Nelson emphasizes the fact that, except for test calls to other stations in the state in order to test the efficiency of the equipment, it will be used only for communication within the forest, and then only in emergency use where telephone service is not available.

The child was but eighteen months old and his passing brings great grief to his parents and relatives. Interment will be made in Pine Grove Odd Fellows cemetery, opposite Pine Grove cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meyers, who are living in San Bruno for a time, are spending a few days of this week at their home on the Banner Mountain road. They entertained the following friends at a dinner last evening. Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Ewing and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wodell.

Ship movements of the United States Navy are no longer, except in exceptional cases, to be made public. The reason generally understood to be behind this decision is that the Navy is increasingly concentrating ships and supplies in our Pacific possessions. The high naval command does not wish to be embarassed by having to consider possible public reaction to every fleet movement undertaken in the Pacific. The last movement made public by the Navy was the sending of three destroyers to Singapore to participate in a British celebration there. It is believed that the destroyers will remain in Singapore some time after the British celebration is over. The state department attitude upon this friendly gesture by the United States to Britain is that the presence of a United States naval force in the Far East may be a very hearty stimulus to Japanese "friendliness" to the United States, and to Japanese precaution as to observing the rights and properties of American nationals in China.

While the United States evidences a desire to cooperate with the English in the Far East, Britain is very busy in strengtening and fortifying Hongkong, on the South China coast. Jingoist Japanese military officers have not in the past shown themselves to be very much impressed by diplomatic protests and demands. The present military activities of Britain and America in the Far East may be calculated to affect the attitude of the Japanese military command far more than any less tangible moves of the State Department.

It is generally believed that President Roosevelt will ask for a larger appropriation for the United States Army than is provided in the 1938 budget. If it is inevitable that the government must continue to spend more and more, it does seem that it is wise to spend on the military departments of the government. This applies more precisely now than ever before, because of the stupendous armament races carried on by all the major countries of the world. It is also true that those countries which are supporting, proportionately to their size, the largest armament burden, are the countries which are weakest as to finance, and the countries which have been most educated to a war spirit. In this situation, it well behooves the United States to thoroughly prepare for war in order to keep out of war.

Every person conversant on world news has at least a superficial understanding of the vast avenues of benefits that would be opened to both the United States and Great Britain by political, economic and military alliance with each other. Cordell Hull, wise and experienced head of the State Department, has made tariff lowering agreements with Great Britain and other countries the chief objective of his tenure in office. A close-knit military alliance with Great Britain, with France as a secondary participant, would present to the world a union of the great democracies representing military power invincible in respect to any military combinations of the fascist countries that now seem possible. That has been said over and over again. It is not new, but vitally important and absolutely true.

Pacifist organizations have done a great work in this country. There is a stronger desire for peace in this country than in any other large nation in the world, save possibly Great Britain. This desire is evidenced by the tone of the national press, by frequent public demonstrations, (particularly in the colleges), by the absence of warlike propaganda, the general condemnation of aggressive countries, and by the absence of any large body of sentiment unfriendly to a foreign nation. Like many great groups striving for the fulfillment of an ideal, the pacifist organizations sometimes adopt a poorly chosen means to the admirable end. The usual attitude of pacifists toward United States armament illustrates this. Pacifists frequently look askance at all armament for this country in excess of the irreducible minimum necessary for police duty. Careful thinking will demonstrate that in a community of heavily armed desperadoes, the person least likely to be engaged in a fight would be that person who possessed the strongest desire for peace, combined with best fighting equipment.

The recent Japanese affronts to the United States serve as an admirable illustration of this hypothesis. The Japanese militarists attempted to frighten all American interests out of China by direct attack and other damages. They failed in this and were compelled to profer an humiliating apology. Why did the cocky Japanese high command have to consent to this unhappy procedure? Because of the stiff demands of the United States diplomats? That is true, but it is not the whole answer. The about-face of Japanese policy was caused by stiff demands of the state department backed up by a powerful navy and the threat of Anglo-American cooperation.

Pacifists have succeeded in creating an intensely war-hating spirit in this country. They have by their own good work invalidated the former theory about big armaments for the United States. They formerly believed that if the United States carried a big gun around long enough, it would become impatient to see how it worked, and use it on some other nation after slight provocation. The calm and judicial American attitude toward the repeated provocations by Japan disproved this theory. Pacifists who see below surface issues should join with other publicc spirited factions in advocating a big army and navy.

SKIER DESTROYS 400 YEAR OLD JUNIPER

The thoughtless action of a winter enthusiast resulted in the destruction of a famous landmark in the form of a 400 year old juniper tree along Highway 40 in the vicinity of Soda Springs recently, according to DeWitt Nelson, forest supervisor at Nevada City. The tree, according to Nelson was approrimately 100 feet tall and measured 8 feet, 10 inches in diameter at the base and was believed to be probably the largest of any species along Highway 40. Some unknown skier, according to reports received by District Ranger Hodgson at Big Bend, fell in a ditch in the vicinity of the tree and built a fire against the tree in order to get warm. The fire was thoughtlessly left smouldering, and by the time it had been reported to Hodgson and action taken, the base of the tree, which happened to be hollow, was burning. Hodgson fought the fire until 1 o'clock in the morning when his pump froze up on account of the extremely cold weather, when he could do no more. As a result, the base of the tree was weakened, causing it to fall.

FARMERS HIT BIG CITY LABOR RACKETEERS

By RALPH H. TAYLOR

The best index to the temper of farm people at the present time with regand to the threat of "hot cargo", raised by city labor bosses, is found in the folloming straight-from-the-shoulder resolution, adopted at the California Fruit Growers and Farmers Convention, held recently in San Jose:

"Whereas, the cities of California derive their prosperity and their main support from the farmers, and

"Whereas, the farmers of California are entitled to free access to the markets of all California cities, and

"Whereas, certain cities are permitting labor racketeers to establish boycotts against the sale or delivery of certain farm products, thereby raising the presumption that their citizens favor such boycotts.

"Now Therefore Be It Resolved, by the 70th Fruit Growers and Farmers Convention that although we are opposed to boycotts in priuciple, we recommend that if any city persists in allowing any California farm products to be barred from its markets through boycotts or failure to protect the farmers in the delivery of their crops, that all the farmers of California consider seriously the advisability of launching united defensive boycotts against such city—upon the principle that no city which boycotts the products of farmers is entitled to the trade or support of farmers."

The California Farm Bureau Federation, the State Grange and other farm organizations have taken simiiar action.

And the Associated Farmers of California, now expanding its activities to include Oregon and Washington farmers, is doing splendid work in paving the way for unity of action—if farmers are compelled to fight fire with fire.

In San Francisco, Oakland, Los Angeles and many other cities, employers have learned—by sad and costly experience—that their only defense against terrorism and unreasonable demands of power-maddened labor bosses is United Action. A recent strike ordered in an Oakland department store quickly collapsed when a solid front of associated merchants announced they would close up immediately if the store was forced to shut down. In another city, threatened with teamster union tie-up, the merchants of the city united, took option-to-buy on a thousand trucks—and announced they would run their own trucking company, with armed guards on each truck, if the strike occurred. It was called off!! In Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. General Public carried their own Christmas packages until an attempt to disrupt holiday parcel delivery was abandoned.

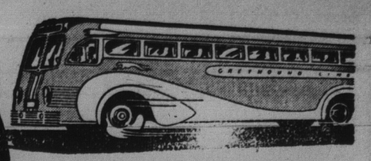

California agriculture can and should learn from the experience of city industries. The apparent strategy of the would-be labor czars, in their drive to "organize" agriculture, is to take over the farming industry one branch at a time. It is a program of attrition, starting with the weakest industries and working up until eventually there would be a complete labor dictatorship.

The Becks and Bridges reason quite logically that indivadual farmers and separate units of the farming industry are powerless to combat them. They approach such farmers and such small branches of the industry with ultimatums which terminate with the ugly threat. "Or else!" The "or else" means that unless they capitulate their trucks will be overturned, their farm hands terrorized, their crops refused access to city markets.

A united faming industry, militaantly determined to protect its American right to till the soil and sell its commodities — without paying tribute to any labor overl lord for the privilege—can, if it will, put a quick end to that. It may be costly, but it will be far less costly than accepting dictation from the Becks and Bridges.

When any branch of California agriculture is attacked, it must have the wholehearted financial, physical and political support of ALL California agriculture. If a general boycott of the offending union or city is required, agriculture must be prepared to order such a boycott—and make it stick! Few city merchants could survive 90 days without farm trade. And few city workers would be employed if city industries suddenly faced an agricultural boycott of their products. Under such circumstances, belligerent labor czars might soon find rebellion in their ranks—for an unemployed worker doesn't pay dues to the man who caused his unemployment!

THE PRESIDENT'S BIRTHDAY BALL

Memorial Hall, Grass Valley, Saturday Evening, January 29, 1938

EVERY YEAR infantile paralysis cripples hundreds of children. Rich and poor, the dread disease makes no distinction, but in the families of the poor the visitation of this scourge is devastation beyond description. The struggle for food for the other children must go on regardless of what happens to the crippled child. A roof, clothing and food must be provided whether the afflicted child dies or lives to be a hopeless cripple.

The President of the Untied States, himself one of the casualties in this never-ending war upon infantile paralysis, has instituted the "President's Birthday Ball," which this year falls on January 29, next Saturday evening, at which all generous and civic minded people are given an opportunity to contribute toward the curing and alleviation of the suffering little children due to this plague.

This year the President's Birthday Ball is more, far more, than a general community dance in Memorial Hall, Grass Valley. There will be an excellent program preceding the ball which gives anyone, whether he enjoys dancing or not, his money's worth.

All the forces which have made Nevada County noted for its charity, its kindness, its thoughtful generosity for those in want, in sickness or bereavement, are mustering for this great annual event.

AUTHORIZED PAID STATEMENT BY PRESIDENT MINE WORKERS PROTECTIVE LEAGUE

TO THE PUBLIC

There has been for the past several days a number of false and misleading reports circulated about the Mine Workers Protective League of Grass Valley. Let me at this time state to the public at large and to the mine workers of this district that the Grass Valley Mine Workers Protective League is now in better condition financially and collectively than it ever was before. That the Grass Valley Mine Workers Protective League is on the same level as the American Federation of Labor and the Committee of Industrial Organization, and is recognized as a bona fide labor organization under the provisions of the Wagner Act. The National Labor Relations Board has so ruled that it is a labor organization on the same footing as the American Federation of Labor and the C. I. O. as a bargaining agency for the workers of this district.

Again I say, do not be misled by any false or misleading reports. The Mine Workers Protective League is here to stay and will at all times protect the interests of its members.

Respectfully yours,

O. F. DONNELLY,
President.

At the last home talent golf tournament the club secretary caught one one of the entrants driving off about a foot in front of the teeing mark.

"Here!" he cried indignantly, "you can't do that. You're disqualified."

"What for?" demanded the golfer.

"Why you're driving off in front of the mark."

The player looked at the secretary with pity.

"G'wan back to the clubhouse," he said tersely. "I'm playin' my third stroke."

1ST LESSON IN TRAFFIC SAFETY

With this issue of the Nevada City Nugget commences a column on Traffic Safety which will appear regularly. It will be edited by Frank A. Crampton, Instructor in the Traffic Safety School of the Nevada Safety Council.

BE SAFE IN TRAFFIC
By FRANK A. CRAMPTON

A great number of us feel that our long experience in driving an automobile has taught us how to avoid accidents. No doubt it has but we become careless and are inclined to take chances and to depend on the other fellow to keep us out of trouble. Accident statistics show that 97.3 per cent of all traffic accidents involving death or injury are caused by drivers with over one year driving experience. Obviously the new driver is more careful.

Statistics also show that four out of five accidents occur in clear weather and driving straight ahead. Reckless driving, exceeding speed limit and driving off of the roadway or off the road was responsible for 60 per cent of these accidents. Remember that the legal speed limit is not the speed you should drive but a limitation under perfect conditions, use slower speeds to meet conditions and do not insist on your right to drive up to the limit.

Obey driving fundamentals to avoid accidents; be courteous, considerate and careful; do not drive beyond the speed limit imposed by conditions; watch out for the other fellow, he may not be watching you. Obey these and accidents will decrease 50 per cent.

Next meeting of the Traffic School will be held at Hennessy School, Grass Valley, at 8 o'clock tonight.
